

Solidarity!

As we fight to tear down the walls that Verizon would like to keep between union members and growth areas of the company, Verizon workers on the other side of the wall are fighting, too.

Verizon Business workers are trying to unionize despite MCI's history of union-busting and their fears of retaliation from the company. Today, union members will deliver a solidarity statement to the largest group of Verizon Business technicians, located in New York City, to let them know we support them. The statement is signed by more than 2,000 CWA and IBEW local officers and stewards at Verizon.

Send your own message to Verizon Business workers—and to management—that we will support every Verizon employee who wants to join our unions.

Solidarity

As fellow Verizon employees and union members, we strongly support VZ Business techs who are now organizing, as well as all other Verizon workers who want to be part of our unions.

We do the same work you do, and we believe that all former MCI employees should receive the same pay, benefits, job security, and seniority protection that we have under our negotiated CWA & IBEW contracts.

Our two unions are working closely together to support your current effort to win union recognition and bargaining rights. We welcome your participation in our joint campaign for a 2008 regional contract that will benefit all of us at Verizon, whether we work for VZ, VZB, or VZW, and whether our previous employer was MCI, GTE, or Bell Atlantic.

Management wants to keep us divided. But our mutual interests are best served by uniting for a better future—for ourselves and our families.
